Our Queen of 1923

By Thomas Wiedemann

Queen Rosie we all honor you, and loyal we will be;
As you reign in our Banner Year of Nineteen Twenty-three;
We all have worked with might and main, and harmony held sway,
And for that reason we feel proud, of this Admission Day.

* * *

Your pretty Maids of Honor too, we greet most heartily,
And either one would grace the throne that we've bestowed on thee,
Long live the Queen, Long live her maids, you've won our hearts today;
Let music song and sports prevail, throughout our Gala Day.

* * *

Just as we're proud of our fair Queen, and of her maids as well,
We're proud of our San Bruno too, the finest place to dwell,
No better climate to be found, no matter where you roam,
The best place in our Golden State, to build a cozy home.

* * *

So on this day, our Natal Day, we celebrate this date,
Our California that we love, because the Golden State,
In after years, when we look back on scenes that we now see,
We'll cherish memories of our Queen; of Nineteen Twenty-three.

The Progress of San Bruno

San Bruno has advanced in many ways since the last Admission Day celebration. Several new up-to-date buildings have been constructed. Many new homes have been added to this splendid district of ideal home sites. In the business section, a number of new commercial enterprises have added to the assets of the city. Extensive public works are nearing completion while others are well under way. By an overwhelming vote of about twelve to one the city voted to expend $320,000 on a water works extension.

The $150,000 street improvements in the San Bruno Park district is nearing completion. Bates & Borsland are now working on a quarter of a million dollar street contract, including sewerage, etc. A new subdivision has been put on the market by Henderson & Burg and there has been a great demand for property. From present indications many fine homes will soon be built in this district.

At Tanforan the million dollar race course is practically completed. But best of all, the city of San Bruno has emerged from its period of petty squabbles, factional feelings, etc., and at this, the Banner Admission Day celebration, everything is harmony and a splendid co-operation has been shown. Owing to its ideal location on this grand Peninsula, San Bruno is destined to become a city of great importance in the very near near future. San Bruno is now in the making; and the next few years will be years of advancement and prosperity.

No where can one find a better climate. No where can one find more health and beauty. Outside of the fog belt, close to San Francisco and on one of the most important Peninsulas in California; San Bruno, the city of ideal homesites has a bright future. Co-operation, harmony and public spirit will advance this city and her citizens are broad enough, and big enough to bring this about. San Bruno welcomes you, on this, the Banner Admission Day celebration.

The various committees have worked hard to make this celebration a success. The members of the Board of Trustees have assisted wholeheartedly, not only as individuals, but as a civic body. The merchants and citizens generally have shown the right spirit.

San Bruno has demonstrated the fact that it can put things over in big style. Everybody in San Bruno assisted in making this celebration a grand success. Therefore thanks are extended to all her citizens.
